

Sam is hugely important on the committee as he brings the average age down to less than the Chelsea Pensioners.

Among other things he is in charge of organising the events for the Society and is always full of ideas to keep our site vibrant and alive. However, he is always receptive to new thoughts and if you have any suggestions please let him know. He's always around as he helps Mick with the site maintenance too and has got his eye on the ride on mower (we've seen you Sam!).

Never without his trademark hat Sam is a host of knowledge and expertise which he happily will share with you if you ask him.

Sam Stevens Moore

"I am Sam. I've had my plot since October 2019 I love to grow anything that's unusual that you won't find in the shops and I'm always looking to try something different and new.

This year I've invested in some asparagus crowns and have my eye on some Japanese wine berries as well as lots of other stuff that are filling my online shopping baskets

The best advice I've been given was on self pollinating bearded iris to get seeds which I then planted and left outside to germinate (every seed will make a completely new style of bearded iris) I have one that took so I'm anticipating what it will turn out like.

A piece of advice I give myself is that all these plants have managed to grow on their own in the wild for years and years so if they can do it surely I can just help them along the way!"
